

“I served 6 months in Iraq. In less than an hour at my neighborhood caucus, I can help end this war and bring my fellow Marines and other military forces home safely.”

Name: Connor, United States Marine Corps

Hometown: Las Vegas

Served: Initial invasion force, 2003

“I’m attending the Democratic Presidential caucus on January 19th to help elect a new commander-in-chief who will end the war in Iraq. I hope you’ll join me.”

“On Saturday, January 19th, Nevada will be the first state in the West to hold a presidential contest.

Our vote will take place at neighborhood gatherings – called ‘caucuses’ – throughout the state and open to any registered Democrat.

Thousands of our neighbors, co-workers and friends will attend these small neighborhood meetings and express support for the presidential candidates of their choice.

After serving 6 months in Iraq, I’m certainly willing to spend less than an hour of my time to help us pick a new President. I hope you’ll join me and a lot of other Nevadans who want to help end this war and plot a new direction for our country.”

What’s a Caucus?

A caucus is a small neighborhood meeting in which any Nevada Democrat is eligible to attend and publicly express support for the presidential candidate of their choice.

You can help end the Iraq war and play a major role in selecting a new President by attending the Democratic Presidential Caucus meeting in your neighborhood on Saturday, January 19th.

Details on the caucus location in your neighborhood are on the back of this brochure.
